Half Guilty

The head of the Ohio Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Miss Mary B. Ervin, hardly can mean it when she says bootlegging is preferable to the state liquor monopoly, but Miss Ervin is more than half right when she says that instead of the state controlling the liquor business the business is controlling the state.

It all goes back to a fundamental premise of the argument for state authority, which was that unless the profit motive could be eliminated there was no hope of controlling the liquor traffic in the interest of a decent society. Ohio's control plan was adopted very largely on the recommendation of a study made by Raymond B. Fordick and Albert L. Scott, who found the state control system preferable to all others.

They believed that a state monopoly should encourage distribution of beer and wine, meanwhile handling the sale of stronger beverages under a policy of minimum distribution and sale. "Unless we eliminate the incentive behind the stimulation of sale," they concluded, "we have not dug to the root of the difficulty."

Ohio has made more money from its liquor monopoly than is consistent with the principle of eliminating incentive behind the stimulation of sale of intoxicating beverages. Miss Ervin is wrong in preferring bootlegging to state monopoly, but a great many thoughtful Ohioans are aware that the state's monopoly has become too big a business for its own good.

Wherewithal

At the close of the best-attended baseball season and the opening of what is certain to be the best-attended football season, horizons in sports promotion are being pushed back so steadily no one can be sure how far the limits extend.

For the time-being it is evident that all preconceived ideas of what people would and wouldn't pay to see are obsolete. Miniature auto racing has gained a huge following. Golf is on the verge of becoming a spectator sport. Tennis still has possibilities in out-of-the-way places where it never has been tried. Basketball already is established as a big-time promotion. Boxing is doing better and even wrestling is coming back. Aquatic spectacles are almost untold, but ice shows have pointed the way to their probable success whenever pools and spectator accommodations are built. Anything is worth trying. The public is hungry for something to see—a contest, a spectacle, an exhibition—almost anything.

But the fact is the public is no different than it was when almost any kind of a sports promotion was a gamble between failure and moderate success. The only thing different is the wherewithal in the public's pockets. When people have money to spend they will spend a large part of it on recreation, with heavy emphasis on spectator sports. When they don't have money to spend they won't spend it, an economic discovery of the first magnitude that has to be rediscovered at 10-year intervals.

That's The Way It Was

The English, a correspondent reports, find it hard to understand why a son of Franklin D. Roosevelt should have written a book of off-the-record material about his father, some of it not complimentary to their former prime minister, Winston Churchill. To them it seems to be a matter of personal ethics not to reveal anything learned in the way that a child of the late Mr. Roosevelt would have had to learn intimate details about his father's associates.

The English, of course, are being stuffy about this. They do not comprehend what an open-handed, breezy crowd of people the Roosevelts were as occupants of the White House. They do not understand the transformation that was wrought in the atmosphere of government during the era highlighted by Harry the Hop, Tommy the Cork and Henry the Morgue. Bless their 'earts, the English don't understand enterprise. Winnie Churchill's wife could have written a syndicated column. The Churchill children could have been making good in the insurance and radio business. All of them could have been stuffing their pockets with beans to spill when the time was ripe, instead of leaving the memoirs to the head of the family!

Completely In Character

The final statements by the 21 defendants in the Nuremberg war crimes trial were not encouraging. But they were entirely in key with the defendants' personalities and with the world in which they still remain alive.

Twenty of the 21 proclaimed their innocence of any crime. Not one renounced his allegiance to National Socialism. To a man they remained convinced and—for all their other lies—apparently sincere Nazis, thwarted in their aims but incapable of realizing the foulness of their methods which aroused and enraged civilization and spelled their ruin.

But if the Nuremberg defendants cannot comprehend the basic cause of their downfall, it seems equally true that the statesmen in Paris cannot comprehend the basic objective of their victory. Those who were to be the architects of a new world built on new foundations sit quarreling and bickering, dotting the same old 's and crossing the same old 's, thinking the same old thoughts as if the war had never been fought.

The immediate horrors of that war are past. Its lingering sorrows are abating. But the utter futility of all war—not only in settling problems but even in altering the thinking of the men who help direct it—grows more evident with each new day.

Athletic girls are inclined to prefer flat heels, says a trainer. We thought most of them preferred escorts who were flush.

The Stars Say
For Wednesday, September 11

IT IS probable that some sudden and quite breathtaking turn of events may precipitate a situation in which the final outcome depends upon a clever, sound, shrewd and at the same time workable, constructive and progressive program, in which the future security as well as current adjustments are vital.

At the same time, the mentality is in a confused or indecisive attitude, perplexed and incoherent because of the suddenness of events. But keen wits, and not emotional urges, lead to far-reaching and safe conclusions. Keep calm.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for the advent of a surprising turn of events, with strange or unprecedented situations, demanding keen analysis and straight thinking rather than rash moves, snap judgments or emotional urges. The sharp turn may have the effect of bewilderment and confusion, with reactions of a perilous nature, unless a marshalling of the wits, with wisdom born of mature thought and experience, be the final factor in making decisions.

Large issues are at stake, with surprising crises, of long-range significance, but in all relations keep poise and amiability even when adjustments and compromises are indicated.

A child born on this day may have sound ambitions, with many gifts, although its judgment may be swayed by emotional impulses.

Americans do not know how to live, said a 79-year-old woman upon her arrival from England. Most of us will admit it—with prices where they are.

Clubfoot Deformity Can Be Corrected

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE famous English poet, Lord Byron, was born with a twisted foot. He went through life with it and was an embittered man in consequence because at the time of his birth, more than a century ago, it was not known that such deformities were correctible.

Today, the child who comes into the world with a clubfoot is much luckier. We still know little enough about the cause of such a condition, but we do realize that if treatment is begun in the first week of life the deformity can be rapidly and easily overcome. That, after all, is the important thing.

Early Treatment
According to Dr. Ross E. Gunn of Iowa, where treatment is begun early there is no wasting of the tissues, no shortening of the muscles or ligaments, and free movement of the foot is possible even during the period of correction.

He recommends what he calls rubber-band traction or pulling. In carrying out this treatment the crooked foot is pulled into the proper position, and it is held by the rubber bands there until there is no tendency for the abnormal position to recur.

An adhesive tape cuff is applied below the knee and around the foot. An extra piece of adhesive tape is put on the cuff and the rubber bands are fastened to it. When the rubber bands are applied to the front part of the foot, it usually goes into the correct position immediately. The doctor can decide just how much of a pull is necessary and can increase it as is necessary.

No Hindrance

It may be seen that with this treatment the infant's movements are not hindered in any way. He can kick in the same way as if the foot were already normal.

All of the eight cases treated in this way were cured. The foot disorder for which this type of treatment would appear to be most successful is that known as clubfoot, in which the feet turn in to a great extent.

Of course, there are other ways of treating these foot disorders such as the application of casts, but it would appear that the use of the rubber bands as described is simple and brings good results.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 45th st., New York City.

Friends Mission Group
Hears Report On China

Dr. Walter R. Williams of Damascus, superintendent of Ohio Yearly meeting of Friends foreign mission work, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Men's Missionary Movement of the First Friends church Monday evening at the home of Sylvester Jackson, Jennings ave. Associate hosts were W. J. Whitton, Charles Odgen and Edgar Derr.

Dr. Williams recently returned from China, where he visited the mission stations at Luh and Nan-king. He outlined conditions there under four words: congestion, confusion, conflict and church.

The speaker stated that despite the congestion, confusion and conflict in that country the faithful Chinese Christians were carrying on the work of the church.

Mr. Odgen and Roy Guess had part in the devotion. B. J. Bostrom played for group singing, led by Homer Ellyson.

Lunch was served to 24 members and six visitors by Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Whitton, Mrs. Odgen and Mrs. Derr.

"Horse Doctor" Scientists Succeed In War Research

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter
WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—In a secret laboratory in the Canadian wilderness, veterinary researchers won one of the great scientific victories of the war. They learned how to protect North America's rich cattle herds—a desperately needed food source—against a suspected threat of enemy germ warfare.

They produced a new and powerful vaccine against "Rinderpest," a fatal scourge of cattle in parts of the Orient and Africa. The cattle plague never had touched the Western hemisphere. But U. S. and Canadian authorities strongly suspected that the Japanese or Germans might attempt to introduce the deadly virus to this continent. If they had, the cattle of North America would have been vulnerable; they had developed no immunity from previous contact. So the men in the secret laboratory—located on Grosse Ile in the lower St. Lawrence river—worked under a terrible urgency.

The Granges

Reports of Meetings and Special Events of Interest to Farm Folk

A large number of grangers from Columbiana county are expected to attend the district grange quartet competition which will be held at the Jackson grange hall in Stark county at 8:30 tonight, Mrs. Guy Prantz, Pomona lecturer of Columbiana county, announces.

Columbiana county's entry is the Mile Branch quartet, winners of the county competition held recently at the Allison, Dale and Frederick school and Richard Howerstein.

The competition will be in charge of State Lecturer C. C. Linerode of Canton.

The Jackson grange hall is located five miles north of Massillon, just west of State Route 241.

GOSHEN

Owing to a conflict in dates, the "good time" party scheduled for Wednesday evening at Goshen grange hall will be omitted this month. It was decided Friday evening.

Five applications for membership were received, one new member was elected to membership and one reinstated. The grange charter was draped in memory of Ebbert M. Bates.

The home economics committee reported that it had been arranged for pre-school age children to be cared for, in addition to the juveniles.

The meeting in two weeks will observe "Booster Night," in preparation for inspection night, Oct. 4. The juveniles worked on their farm beautification project and degree work in preparation for inspection night.

Following the lecture hour, which was devoted to contests, a party was held for the members whose birthdays come in July, August and September.

The grange voted to make a donation to the building fund of the National grange, which maintains headquarters in Washington, D. C.

GUILFORD

Deputy Master Norman Barnett was present at the meeting of Guilford grange Saturday evening for degree inspection.

The third degree was exemplified by a team with Orva Walton acting as captain. Others taking part included: Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sanor, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Raley, Mr. and Mrs. James Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gamble, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Lebert Barber, Gloria Vincent, Helen Arbanitis, Mrs. Robert Ward, Mrs. Elwood Sanor, Mrs. H. S. Gamble, Mrs. Emmet Caldwell, and Frank Baker.

Plans were made to hold Booster night Oct. 5 and to have Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Beardsley present to have charge of folk dances.

At the next meeting, Sept. 21, a shower will be held for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stallman. Juvenile graduation and a short program by the Juvenile Grange also will be features of the meeting.

Midget Horses

A band of midget horses scarcely larger than dogs, found in the mazes of the Grand Canyon, was believed to be descended from normal-sized horses trapped in the canyon long ago by a landslide, but degenerated, due to a lack of body-building materials.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS — The Killer In Our Midst

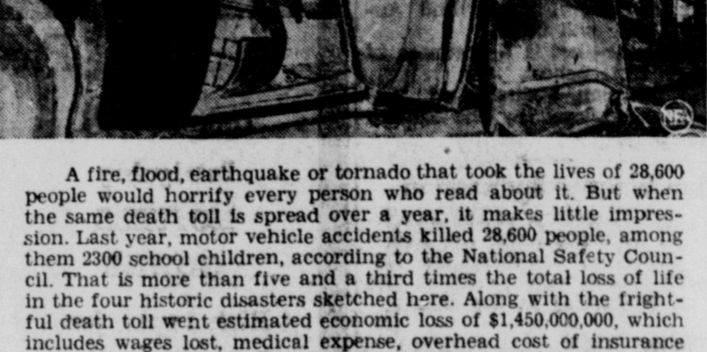

Sinking of Titanic

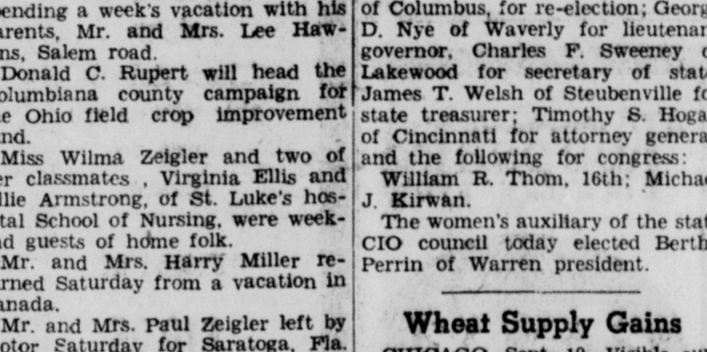

Johnstown Flood

San Francisco Quake

Florida Hurricane

A fire, flood, earthquake or tornado that took the lives of 28,600 people would horrify every person who read about it. But when the same death toll is spread over a year, it makes little impression. Last year, motor vehicle accidents killed 28,600 people, among them 2300 school children, according to the National Safety Council. That is more than five and a third times the total loss of life in the four historic disasters sketched here. Along with the frightful death toll went estimated economic loss of $1,450,000,000, which includes wages lost, medical expense, overhead cost of insurance and property damage. Drive carefully and help defeat this killer.

SALINEVILLE MAN HEADS C. E. GROUP

Stressing its convention theme, "Enlist For Christ," the 55th annual convention of the Columbiana County Christian Endeavor union was held Sunday afternoon and evening at Bethesda Presbyterian church, Millport.

Miss Wilma Knopp of Columbiana, R. D., county president, presided over the sessions which were attended by more than 200, representing C. E. societies in all parts of the county.

It was decided to hold the next annual convention in the First Church of Christ, East Liverpool, Sunday, Sept. 14, 1947.

Carns-Handzell Vows Said In Ceremony On Saturday

At a beautifully appointed wedding, Miss Lurline Ina Carns, daughter of Mrs. Ada Carns of E. Fifth st., and Emil Handzell of Cleveland, son of Mrs. Frank Handzell of Ravenna, exchanged their nuptial vows at 9 a. m. Saturday in St. Edward's Catholic church at Parkman.

Rev. Father Hreha said a high mass, using the double ring ceremony. Miss Theresa Zeda sang the traditional wedding music accompanied by Mrs. Amelia Rhoher, organist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Ralph Carns, of Salem, the bride was escorted to the altar, which was arranged with bouquets of white gladioli and lighted with white candles. She was charming in a white gown of satin and net, fashioned with a court train. Her full length imported illusion veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls.

She wore a diamond set cross the groom's gift and her mother's lapel watch, which was given to Mrs. Carns when she was married. She carried a white prayer book, topped with a large bouquet of white roses tied with white ribbon.

Matron Of Honor

Mrs. Carmella Testa of Parkman, matron of honor, appeared in a blue taffeta gown and carried a bouquet of yellow roses tied with wide yellow ribbon.

Miss Helen Zeada, cousin of the groom, bridesmaid, wore a yellow organdie gown and carried a bouquet of pink roses tied with wide pink ribbon.

Alliance George of Parkman, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore an attractive white net gown over pink taffeta and carried a basket of mixed flowers. Her head-dress was of pink rosebuds.

Donnie George of Parkman, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer. He was in a black formal and carried the ring on a small white satin pillow.

Frank Handzell, brother of the groom, was best man. Paul Zeada, cousin of the groom, ushered.

Mrs. Carns chose for her daughter's wedding, a brown and aqua crepe dress with matching accessories and wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds, while Mrs. Handzell was costumed in navy blue with matching accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses.

A wedding dinner for the immediate families was served at a Warren restaurant.

White gladioli were used to decorate the refreshment table, which was adorned with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

HARD, SOFT PEACE ADVOCATES LINE UP

Diplomatic Officials Linked In Sharp Debate Over Byrnes' Speech

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Diplomatic officials hooked up in sharp debate today over whether Secretary of State Byrnes' speech at Stuttgart will help establish one world or two.

The lineup generally is the same as it was when the big argument was whether the Allies should impose a "hard" or "soft" peace on Germany.

The debate also pits those who favor patience and conciliation toward Russia against those who believe a working basis with Moscow—if possible at all—can be achieved only by bold diplomacy.

The one-time "hard" peace advocates are sharply critical of the Byrnes speech. So are those who favor a conciliatory attitude toward Russia.

Center Of Criticism

These persons, saying that Byrnes virtually abandoned the Potsdam Big Three pact at Stuttgart, center their criticism around these chief points:

1. Byrnes may have ended serious attempts at a collective, four-power approach to German problems with his assertion that the United States—in the absence of a Big Four agreement to treat Germany as an economic unit—will proceed to unify its zone economically with any others willing to go along.

2. Some of his statements were made primarily for political purposes—to curry German favor for the United States as against Russia.

3. The effect of the speech may be to drive Russia into deeper economic and political isolation from western countries, thus increasing the probability of an eventual East-West showdown.

Who Failed First?

Byrnes' supporters—President Truman and most top State department officials—acknowledge that the speech in a sense was a departure from Potsdam. But, they ask, who failed in the first instance to fulfill the Potsdam terms?

They contend the original violations of Potsdam were (1) Soviet and French unwillingness to go along with the economic unification and (2) Russia's insistence on exacting reparations from current German production.

The Byrnes backers say that if Byrnes played politics in seeking German favor, his efforts did not exceed those of Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in the latter's statement on Germany from Paris July 10.

Recruiter Points Out New Army Advantages

The question of what the Army actually is doing to improve the officer-enlisted man relationships has been raised frequently since the announcement of the recommendations made by the Doolittle board last May.

Sgt. H. J. Kennedy, in charge of the local Army recruiting station, Postoffice building, today listed a number of the important steps being taken by the War department to carry out these recommendations.

First concerns the improvement of leadership in the army. To aid in attaining this the War department has set up an Army school system, that provides for periodical formal schooling between tours of field duty for officers. Courses in psychology of leadership, personnel management, utilization of manpower, and human relations have been introduced in many of the Army's service schools.

Another important change, Sgt. Kennedy pointed out, is the abolishment of the hand salute while off duty and away from Army installations within the continental limits of the United States. However, the War department has found it necessary to retain its regulations on saluting in all overseas theaters, particularly in occupied countries, in order to create a favorable comparison between U. S. soldiers and those of other Allied nations.

Boyle's COLUMN

By JAMES BOYLE
(For Hal Boyle)

HERFORD, Germany.—A new problem for occupation authorities is the demobilized Allied soldier who finds that civilian life fails to meet his expectations and smuggles himself back into Germany.

"We are getting quite a few of these cases," said a British official, although the exact number is unavailable.

What impels a soldier, given a chance to enjoy placid life at home, to return to these bomb-shattered cities—particularly when an American army survey shows that the highest hope of many Germans is to leave the country and start life anew elsewhere?

Officials say there are at least three reasons.

First, and most obvious, some have fallen in love with German girls and want to return to them.

Second: Adventurous types, after years in the army, find life at home comparatively dull. The rough and tumble atmosphere of postwar Germany seems more exciting.

Third: Some, dully intending to stay home, can't find jobs, or jobs as well-paying as they want. For years army life has been a part of him, with its work—and its "fun."

One illegal immigrant told a simple story.

He just donned his uniform again, joined a party of soldiers who were returning to Germany from leave in England and arrived here undetected. He lived here for six months without a ration card or official entry at any mess before he was discovered.

When asked how he did it, he replied: "Like any good soldier, by scrounging."

As punishment, he was ordered—not to stay in Germany—but to keep out for five years.

In another case, a British soldier fell in love with a German girl. He hoped to return as a member of the military government. He passed the examinations but was told it would be six months before he would be sent to Germany. Rather than wait, he returned on his own and was picked up.

Now that the marriage ban has been lifted, and troops may take brides to England, there may be fewer such cases.

The job situation alone causes many soldiers, particularly officers, to return to Germany illegally as members of the military government.

Some of these officers have been in the army for five or six years, or more. Many joined up before they had a chance to get very far in business or other careers.

The idea of going back to jobs they had when they were 21 or 22 years old, particularly with prices up and housing scarce, isn't attractive after years of drawing an officers' pay.

They find that the job they know best now is the army. Military government work is similar in many respects, and sometimes the pay is better.

Added to that, life as a member of the occupying forces offers good food, clubs, swimming pools and other amenities that not all would find at home.

So it is that many an officer on heading for home and demobilization says: "I'll be back."

Magic Tokens

"Black-Fellows' Buttons," curious glassy objects treasured by Australian aborigines as tokens of magic, are found by the millions, but only in Australia. Scientists are in doubt as to their origin, but the most generally accepted theory is that they all fell at one time as an unusual form of meteorite.

At one time, 5,000,000 birds were killed annually in the United States for use on women's hats.

Sen. Mead Backs Kilgore For War Probe Committee

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Senator Mead (D-N.Y.) announced yesterday he would resign soon as chairman of the Senate War Investigating committee and suggested Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va.) as his successor.

Mead told a news conference his decision was based on his recent nomination as Democratic candidate for governor of New York. President Truman, original chairman of the committee, set a precedent for Mead's action when he quit the post upon his nomination as vice president in 1944.

Mead indicated his resignation would become effective by Oct. 1. He noted that Sen. Connally (D-Tex.) stands next on the committee in seniority, but pointed out that the Texan now is chairman of the important Foreign Relations committee.

Mead said he thought it would be "probably all right to voice an assumption" that the chairmanship will go to Kilgore, the next ranking Democrat.

GIRL'S ABDUCTOR GETS 25-YEAR TERM

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Sept. 10.—Okey James Blair, 28, of Steubenville, O., was sentenced today to 25 years in federal prison for the abduction and injury of a Parkersburg girl last June 26.

The sentence was imposed here by Federal Judge Harry E. Watkins because Judge William E. Baker, who conducted Blair's trial at Elkins, is ill. Blair, who faced a possible death penalty because of the girl's injuries, was convicted Aug. 2 by a jury which recommended mercy.

He was named by Rosalie Wright of Parkersburg as the man who forced her to accompany him from a Parkersburg night club to Belpre, O., and who struck her, breaking her jaw and inflicting other injuries.

Carl Richard Duralia, 32 also of Steubenville, was jointly charged with Blair, but was freed by the trial jury.

Chances against having an accident in your own home are only 4200 to one.

Twin Jewels

in a perfect setting

EVERY woman dreams of the perfect kitchen, the kitchen she intends to have. She wants that kitchen to be a colorful, practical room in her home—a pleasant place in which to work, a cheery spot in which to visit and chat with family and friends. She wants her kitchen to be convenient—with plenty of built-in cabinet space, lots of drawers, a spacious sink, and scads of up-to-the-minute time saving gadgets.

Most of all she wants a new gas range and a new gas refrigerator for this perfect kitchen setting. She knows from experience that in the kitchen gas is tops with its unbeatable combination of extra performance, extra economy. You can be certain she intends to have a "New Freedom Gas Kitchen."

The new gas ranges have everything! Beautifully designed for top performance, the new gas ranges have fully automatic controls and lighting, giant burners for extra speed, simmer burners for "waterless" cooking, smokeless broilers and roomy ovens with extra heavy insulation for cooler cooking comfort. And gas is so economical! The average family cooks with gas for less than a dollar a month.

The new gas refrigerators are streamlined gems of modern styling... designed for maximum storage and freezing space, with plenty of ice cubes. Since a tiny gas flame does all the work... there are no moving parts in the freezing system, no noise, no expensive repairs or replacements for an intricate freezing mechanism. National Race Advancing to Do or Die Stage

Cards And Dodgers Steam Toward Last Phases With Hopes of Copping Pennant

By RALPH RODEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

The do or die stage for the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National league pennant race gets underway today with the Red Birds beginning a 13-game road trip at Philadelphia while the Dodgers entertain the Cincinnati Reds.

The American league's eastern clubs take their last journey through the west with the pace-setting Boston Red Sox needing only to defeat the Detroit Tigers today to clinch their first pennant since 1918.

Leading the Dodgers by two games, the Cards will play the Phils twice and then invade Flatbush for a three-game series.

With the exception of three games at Boston, the Dodgers play the remainder of their 17 games at home. The Cards have only five games left to play at Sportsman's park in St. Louis.

Brooklyn hurling, paced by Rookie Joe Hatten and Veteran Kirby Higbe, and the return to form of Pete Reiser, have increased the Brooks' confidence in their chances of overhauling the Red Birds.

In their last four games, Brooklyn pitchers have gone the distance. Only once previously this season have Dodger hurlers gone the route four straight times.

The Red Birds pitching staff has fallen off somewhat, with Howie Pollet and Murry Dickson hit exceptionally hard in their last outings. Pollet, winner of 18 games, has been ill. The Red Bird hitters are enjoying some of their biggest days of the season at the plate. Enos (Country) Slaughter has taken a commanding lead in the runs-batted-in department, and Stan Musial continued to pace the league in batting.

In the only game in either league yesterday, the Philadelphia Phillies nosed out the New York Giants, 5-4 under the lights at Philadelphia.

Charley Gilbert broke up the game in the ninth by singling in Andy Seminick from second. Del Ennis clouted a three-run first inning homer off Rookie Sheldon Jones to send the Phils off to a 3-0 lead. The Phils entered the ninth leading 4-1, but the Giants staged a scoring spree in which Pinch-Hitter Ernie Lombardi made a home run.

Charley Schanz went the route for the Phils while Woody Abernathy and Gene Thompson followed Jones to the hill for the Giants.

Bostonians Rush For Seat At World Series Of 1946

(By Associated Press)

BY BILL KING

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—New England's rabid baseball fans eclipsed all of wartime's cigarette, butter and nylon queues as they flooded postal and telegraph offices with applications for Red Sox world series tickets during the hours just before and after the midnight deadline.

Boston's main postoffice was jammed with persons of both sexes and all ages, each eagerly gripping a stamped-in-advance envelope containing a money order or certified check for $12.25 for a pair of the 25,000 reserved seats that will be available for each game at Fenway park.

The same conditions prevailed at every other postal station in the city, as well as at the main telegraph office and all of that company's branches. And the streets leading to such places were choked with mile-long lines of automobiles. "The day-before-Christmas rush never was anything like this," gasped a harassed traffic cop in newspaper row.

Club officials in newspaper advertisements, had given ample warning that no application would be considered if postmarked or wired before 12:01 a. m. this morning.

Burlington, Vt., reported that its five banks had issued more than a thousand certified checks yesterday and its post office noted that three out of every five money orders sold were for world series tickets.

Boston's postmaster, Patrick J. Connelly, after extending every possible facility, estimated the money order business and registered mail turnover as the greatest in the city's history.

SQUIRREL HUNTERS TO GO ON SEPT. 14

Better-Than-Average Year Seen As State Operates On One-Season Basis

Reports from the state's game protectors and other field men of the Ohio Division of Conservation this week gives promise of a better-than average squirrel shooting season as oldtimers as well as a few new stump-sitters prepare for H-hour on the bushytails at daybreak Saturday, Sept. 14.

There'll be a slightly shorter season this year and the entire state comes under one open season. In 1941 Ohio squirrel hunters asked for and were granted a split season—that is the season opened in the southernmost counties a little earlier than the northern sector.

This provision served two purposes according to the plan. First it furnished a shorter season for the northern counties where the squirrel population experienced a decided slump and secondly it presumably gave the southern hunters a better chance at the squirrels before they moved out of many sections following the earlier nut harvest in the southern counties.

But this year representatives at the game hearing held in June asked that the split season be cast aside, mostly because of the yearly confusion and hunting pressure caused in the counties bordering the zone dividing line through central Ohio.

Although the season is a bit shorter, those who depend on their "Saturdays-off" for the sport, will appreciate the fact that the season includes three Saturday's opening at daybreak Saturday, Sept. 14, and continuing through Saturday the 28th.

The daily bag limit will be 4, and the possession limit 4 for both the grey and fox squirrel; there is no bag limit or closed season on the little red or pine squirrel.

For the sake of eliminating possible confusion in identification, the red squirrel is very small and is dark red in color with a somewhat yellow or white belly.

Piggy Lambert Becomes Pro Basketball Ruler

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Fiery, colorful Ward "Piggy" Lambert, basketball coach at Purdue for 28 years until last January, today was ready to sign a 3-year contract as commissioner of the National Basketball league.

He will receive approximately $10,000 a year in the newly-created post—sum which indicates that professional basketball anticipates a place in the post-war sports boom on a big business basis.

The sense of vision brings man 83 per cent of his knowledge.

Strikers Boycott Maritime Hearing

The AFL Maritime strike strategy committee went into a hurriedly called meeting in New York today with an announcement from John Hawk, vice president of the Seafarers International union (AFL), that "an important statement will be issued afterward."

He said he had just been in telephone conversation with Harry Lundeberg, west coast leader of the striking AFL seamen, at San Francisco.

The meeting was called as the Wage Stabilization board in Washington began a review of its "pay cut" decision of last Aug. 23 which precipitated a strike of more than 30,000 AFL seamen, joined by 400-
600 other maritime workers.

The strike leaders boycotted the WSB hearing, arranged to receive any additional evidence to support the union's demand for reversal of the board's ruling.

The sixth day of the strike found the nation's seaports stilled with all export traffic suspended as talk of new wage demand by CIO seamen added to the troubled situation.

THE RAILROAD IS COMING

In the early weeks of 1846, just over a century ago, Salem's thousand inhabitants were excited—and with good reason. Muddy roads, hardly more than wilderness trails, were the little town's only means of communication with the rest of the country. Now it looked as if the glorious dream of a railroad might come true.

At any rate, Salem was resolved to be ready for the era of expansion that better communications would assure. "Salem must have a bank," they said. A group of local business men, headed by Zadok Street, Esq., who had been the first white child born in the settlement, thereupon organized the Farmers Bank of Salem.

The institution received its charter from the State of Ohio on February 16th, 1846 and began business a few weeks later. Through an entire century, Salem and the Farmers Bank have grown and prospered together.
